

Publication Guidelines for Student Media Gallery

The Student Media Gallery is filled with interesting videos, photos, art, stories and other work created by students from around the world. By browsing through the Student Media Gallery, you can see what an open air market in Uzbekistan looks like, take a virtual fieldtrip to New Zealand and see all sorts of digital art. You can learn how to say “hello” in another language, read an Alien Adventure written by students in eight different countries and see photos from every continent in the world. The Student Media Gallery is a great place to see what other students around the world are doing in their classrooms and to share your own work. Here are some basic guidelines for using the Student Media Gallery on ePals:

Uploading

- Use only your first name and last name initial on your work. For your safety and security, we cannot post any work that has your full name showing on it.
- Give your work a good title and write a short description in the description box. Tell us what the piece is and how you made it. If you are sharing a photo tell us where the photo was taken.
- Maximum file size that you can upload is 100 MB.
- Parental permission is required before images (pictures) of students under the age of 13 can appear on the ePals website. Please obtain parental permission and email verification to support@epals.com for photos of students under the age of 13 years old.
- All submissions are moderated by a person before being posted to the Media Gallery. Your message will not immediately appear on the site. Please allow at least 24 hours for your work to appear in the Media Gallery.

Browsing and Commenting

- While you don't have to be logged in to view the media in the Media Gallery, you must be logged into your ePals account to rate (stars) or comment on the media in the Media Gallery.
- Be polite and respectful when commenting. No name-calling or rude comments. Consider that another student has put their time and effort into the work that you are looking at and comment accordingly.
- All comments are moderated by a person before being posted to the Media Gallery. Your message will not immediately appear on the site. Please allow at least 24 hours for your message to appear. Once the comment is approved it will appear below the media that you are commenting on.
